

The people of Nevada have never declared nor waged war against the Southern Pacific Company, nor have they ever manifested a disposition to treat that corporation unfairly, nor to discriminate against it unjustly in any matter relating to its financial or political interests. The warfare has always been inaugurated and waged against the people by the corporation, which has taken the initiative in every campaign and election by seeking to control the dominant party in the State. In this it has generally been successful, and it has invariably exercised its power to thwart the will of the people and to humiliate them by giving them distinctly to understand that they have no rights which are not subject and subservient to the imperious will and pleasure of its political agent who represents the despotism which controls the State and most of the county governments within our borders. It is a fact too notorious to be denied, or even discussed, that every State officer, with but a single exception, now holding a place in the State capital building at Carson, was placed on the Silver party ticket by Mr. Wallace, and that all of the positions in our State institutions, the University excepted, are equally subject to his control and disposal. In most of the counties, the same arbitrary power has been exercised, at least to such an extent, that it may be truthfully asserted that the Southern Pacific corporation has practical control of the political machinery of the commonwealth.

While it may be a matter of wonderment to some how the power of self rule has been wrested from those to whom it rightfully belongs, it is no secret to those who have watched and noticed the movements and methods of the man who has so successfully manipulated the politics of the State, especially within the last six or eight years. Taking advantage of the intense and honest silver sentiment in the State, and foreseeing how it could be utilized in serving the ends of his gold-bug employers, he was one of the first to enter the movement, as he was the loudest in his declaration that all other issues must be set aside in the interest of the paramount one of bimetalism. By his acts and wiles he managed to place himself at the head of the party, of which he assumed the dictatorship, which he contrived to retain, despite considerable active opposition, until the work of the last State convention was completed. In other words he has succeeded for the last six years in prostituting the righteous cause of bimetalism to the selfish ends of a gold standard corporation, and while softly whispering silver in the ears of his deluded victims, was silently fastening the iron chain of political servitude upon them as upon all of the people of the State.

As part of the fruits of such usurpation of power, the Southern Pacific Company pays proportionately something less than one-third of the amount of taxes that is paid by other property owners, while it taxes its Nevada subjects nearly double the amount in fares, and proportionately in freight charges, in excess of the rates charged in other States on the line of its roads.

The people have stood such discrimination, both in excessive taxation by the State and counties, and by the railroad company for many years, with more than christian meekness and patience, and perhaps they would continue to do so for years to come if financial oppression constituted their crowning grievance. The condition of political servitude imposed upon them, at last, however, touched their pride and aroused their indignation, and last fall they determined to throw off the yoke of corporation despotism. They were successful mainly at the polls, but lost the fruits of their victory through the treachery of some of those whom they selected to represent their rights. That is not likely to occur again. The trouble last fall was lack of organization by the people. While their enemies were thoroughly organized and disciplined, the struggles for freedom were in those respects but little better than a disorganized and unofficerd army. The experience, however, has proven a wholesome lesson. There is a sturdy and deep-seated determination to throw off the yoke two years hence at all hazards. The feeling is becoming stronger every day that partisanship must give way to the work of emancipation, which can only be accomplished by disregarding local politics and the unification of the liberty loving people against the promoters of despotic rule. This can and will be done without reference to national politics, or the sacrifice of any political principle by any one. How such concert of action will be effected is a problem of not difficult solution. That it will be done, judging from the temper of the people and other indications, is an assured fact. The people at least realize that to save their liberty, themselves must strike the blow.

These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in cure of constipation and sick headache. For Malaria and liver trouble they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to the stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold by S. J. Rodkinson's Druggist.

Two Slips by Dickens.

Mr. Marcus Stone, the English artist, was when a young man much associated with Dickens as an illustrator of "Our Mutual Friend" and of "Great Expectations." He notes that Dickens' characters were so positively real to him that the artists never had the least difficulty in learning all about them from him.

"When," says Mr. Stone, "I had to go to him and get instructions and hints as to the characters I had to draw, I always got a clear and definite answer, except on two occasions. You will remember that Silas Wegg, in 'Our Mutual Friend,' had a wooden leg. I asked Dickens which leg it was. He gave me an answer which turned out to be wrong. The other occasion was this: When he was discussing the cover of the story, he said that one of the scenes in it should be the death of Eugene Raeburn. You will remember that Eugene Raeburn does not die. His creator relented at the last moment and allowed him to live."

Anthony Trollope, the artist says, was just the reverse of this. "He did not seem to take anything like the same interest in his characters as Dickens. When I would ask him a question about one of his characters, his answer nearly always was, 'I don't know.' 'Had the young lady fair hair or dark?' I would ask. 'I don't know,' was the reply. 'Was she tall or middle sized or small?' I would inquire. 'I don't know,' was again the answer."

When Gunpowder Was New.

A curious feature about this evolution in methods of hunting was the hesitation with which gunpowder was taken up by the great nobles. Not only did it take quite a century to familiarize hunters with it, but the evidence that has come down to us shows that the humble classes were the first to use it for shooting game. Maximilian, ardent sportsman that he was, tells us himself that he could shoot farther and with greater accuracy with his crossbow than his keeper could with the fire tube. To prove this he tells us the well known story of a certain chamois standing at a distance of 300 fathoms, which, after being pronounced as too far off by his henchman, who was armed with one of the first sporting firearms mentioned in print, comes tumbling down, pierced at the first attempt, by the emperor's bolt.

From other sources we learn of strict measures being adopted to prevent poachers and "wood loafers" using firearms, and this at a period when princes still used the cumbersome crossbow and spear. It was only in the last quarter of the sixteenth century that firearms had ousted other weapons for certain forms of the chase, the deer battle being among the latter.—Gentleman's Magazine.

The "Letter Gae."

The leader of psalmody, or precursor, in the church of Scotland used to read from his desk in front of the pulpit the successive lines for congregational singing. He was the "letter gae"—i. e., he that let go or started the praise—and his desk was called the "letteron" (lectern). Pitching his voice to the first note of each line, he proceeded to chant the words in a slow, drawing monotone, prolonging the last syllable for a little and then breaking at the head of the congregation into the music set to the words thus delivered. The effect of this would no doubt be frequently more curious and entertaining than edifying and solemn, and strange developments must occasionally have occurred. The position tested not only the musical qualifications, but also the literary attainments of the leader, and there are passages in the metrical version of the Psalms as used in Scotland which must have put rural precursors on their mettle.—Notes and Queries.

A Landscape.

Mrs. Fatpurs—You paint pictures to order, don't you?
Great Artist—Yes, madam.
Mrs. Fatpurs—Well, I want a landscape, with lots of deer and ducks and quail and partridges and pheasants and cattle and sheep and pigs, and so on, you know, and put a lake and an ocean in—fresh and salt water, you know—and be sure to have plenty of fish swimming around, because it's for the dining room.—Boston Globe.

Similarity.

While Frederic Remington was in the west he observed a well executed portrait in a dark room on the wall of a cabin and asked whose picture it was.
"That's my husband," said the woman of the house carelessly.
"But it is hung with fatal effect," urged the artist.
"So was my husband," snapped the woman.

GOOD FOR NEVADA.

We Fall in Cold Turkey on a Piece of California Legislation.

A bill has been introduced in the California Legislature relative to infected cattle districts, which, if it passes, as is more than probable, will insure to the benefit of hay raisers in Nevada and especially those of Washoe county. The bill purposes to exclude from the quarantined district of California the northern counties of the State which are free from the infection which prevails in most of the counties south of Sacramento.

The passage of the bill referred to will enable Oregon cattlemen to drive their stock through the counties north of us to Amodee and from there ship by rail to Nevada for feeding, preparatory to shipment to the eastern or western market, as the case may be. As it is at present there is no outlet in this direction for either Oregon or northern California cattle, but with the quarantine proscription removed, large numbers from both sections will undoubtedly be transported to Nevada, where they will effect beneficially the hay market on the line of the Southern Pacific road.

Dr. Patterson was over in California for several days in the interest of northern cattlemen. He is owner of considerable stock in that section and did good work among the California officials, both for our northern neighbors and for his home people of the sagebrush State.

Better Have Stood Pat.

Denton has written a letter to Mon. A. C. Cleveland, begging the latter to stop the "abuses" of him in the papers. He greatly overrates the power of Mr. Cleveland if he imagines that that gentleman could if he would stop the comments of the unsubsidized press upon such base and palpable treachery as he, Denton, was guilty of in voting for Wm. M. Stewart for United States Senator. Not treachery particularly to Mr. Cleveland but to the people who were so shamefully betrayed. Denton acknowledges that he was in honor bound to vote for Mr. Cleveland and makes matters worse for himself by his bungling attempt to explain his reason for voting for Stewart which he claims was in the interest of the candidate to whom he was pledged, and whom he was bound by every principle of honor to support from start to finish. He claims that if Stewart was not elected on the first ballot he intended to lead a bolt from the railroad candidate to Cleveland and in the same sentence admits that he knew Stewart would be elected without his vote. As a letter writer Denton is not a success. He had better have rested his case with his dialogue with Senator Comins, for he will never make anybody believe that the White Pine Senator did not sum up the true business in his few but somewhat pointed remarks, addressed to the cyclonic member from Lincoln on the floor of the State Senate. It is one of those affairs whose odor is not improved by stirring.

The Concert To-Morrow Evening.

The concert to be given by Miss Mollie Adelia Brown and company to-morrow evening, promises to be one of the finest musical treats the people of Reno have had an opportunity to listen to for many a day. Among the selection that Miss Brown will sing is the Echo Song, made famous in this country in 1850 by Jennie Lind, which she sings with refined style. The program will not be a strictly classical one but will consist of selections of pleasing songs and instrumental numbers. Several selections will be given by Russell H. Ballard, cellist, that has been requested. In fact the program will be arranged with a view of pleasing all whether they be high class musicians or simply lovers of a sweet voice or selection on a musical instrument when well played. There promises to be a large audience present as the box sheet is rapidly filling up and the indications are that good seats will be at a premium.

That Bottle of Whiskey.

The editor of the Gazette seems to be in much trouble over a bottle of plantation whiskey. Some of the boys have been getting their work in on the Gazette editor in away not in the least creditable to themselves. There is no wrong included by any code of morals known to civilized man in the theft of a bottle of good whiskey from an editor, because it is a two to one bet that he stole the whiskey himself or obtained it in some dead beat way equally as bad.

The wrong on the part of the boys who stole the whiskey is in the disappointment and grief it caused Allen when he found that soft coal had been substituted for the much cherished beverage. This reporter is fully informed, about the matter and is on the inside of the business and if the Gazette editor will call at the JOURNAL office the matter will be fully explained in a very lucid and satisfactory manner, which means that the stolen bottle of whiskey can and will be brought in sight to the delight and comfort of the disconsolate pencil pusher.

Death Claims Its Own.

Death, with his sickle keen, has taken from our midst a sheaf of ripened grain. Mrs. Sophia Scott, an old and loved resident of Reno, was called to her eternal rest about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, at the ripe old age of 91 years. Mrs. Scott was a wonderful exemplification of strength of both mind and body up to the time of her final sickness, which was of short duration. She retained her mental faculties up to within a few minutes of her death and gave directions as to funeral arrangements with surprising clearness. Mrs. Scott came to Washoe county in 1868, locating in Washoe City, where she resided until 1870, when she and her family removed to Reno, which has been their residing place ever since. Mrs. Scott leaves two sons and two daughters, all of whom reside in Reno, with the exception of one son, who is a resident of eastern Nevada. Besides the relatives she leaves a host of friends all of whom feel deeply the loss of a noble, christian woman.

The Rebekahs' Entertainment.

The Rebekahs entertained their friends last night in the hall of the new Investment building. It is well known that when men give a reception unassisted by the ladies, as a rule the affair is crude, but when the ladies take things into their own hands and endeavor to make a reception worthy to the name, then prepare for a good time, especially if the ladies be members of the Order of Rebekahs. The program last night was varied, with music, recitations and dancing. Lizzette Hoskins sang one of the popular songs of the day and was heartily cheered. At 10 o'clock supper was served, after which the dancing continued until 12. The reception was a brilliant success.

Grip's Ravages Doomed.

So much misery and so many deaths have been caused by the Grip, that every one should know what a wonderful remedy for this malady is found in Dr. King's New Discovery. An Interesting Case.

All people are interested in a new case that has recently cropped up in Reno, and they have good reason for being so. This case contains many striking features. It is Mr. F. P. Dunn's show case on Virginia street, down by the iron bridge. It is very beautiful, his new window display of all that is modern in photography. There one may see large opalotypes small autotypes and lovely porcelains. Just think! Artistic photographs on genuine porcelain. And what do you think of this? He makes photographs on handkerchiefs—silk handkerchiefs. What more appropriate present could be imagined than one of these with your photo on it?

THE PALACE DRY GOODS AND CARPET HOUSE.

SPECIAL SALE OF

LADIES' AND GENTS' WOOLEN UNDERWEAR.

Commencing Monday, February 6th.

This is the first time in the history of our business career that we have had to offer Ladies' and Gents' Woolen Underwear at greatly reduced prices. The cause for this is that we have too many of them left on account of the spell of warm weather, when we expected it to be cold. The result is a deep cut in prices and it would pay anyone to invest. Look at our display in the windows.
